St. Augustine Visitor Expires

During the middle of March, 1956, Ambrose Morawski, for many years an annual visitor for brief sojourns, arrived at Saint Augustine's Seminary.

Personnel of the institution expected another of his fleeting visits, but it was not long before word was spread that the frail-looking elderly man, had retired from active business, and planned to remain as a permanent guest with the Seminary. Their pleasure with the knowledge was unbounded, for he had become a general favorite during the years.

A native of Attleboro, Mass., Morawski had never married. His life story is given by one of the Fraters of St. Augustine's.

Ambrose, the third child of a pious couple was born May 31, 1890, the same day on which the corner stone of his parish church was laid. His parents had three other sons and one daughter, all of whom attended public school in their home town, since there was no Catholic school to send them to. Religious influence came from their parents and the church.

The young man was contacted with Time Magazine and transferred from New York to Washington D. C. as a staff writer. During the years he met and married the former Agnes Kamp Devaux, of Chevy Chase, Md. The young couple have made this Washington suburb their home and are the parents of three children, two sons and one daughter. During his evening hours away from the office, Blair began the various phases of writing books. He wrote at this time "The Atomic Submarine," followed by the very controversial publication "Hydrogen Bomb."

His next venture was a difficult type of writing, a collection of short stories, all areas but writing in fictional form, compiled into a volume titled "Beyond Courage." This collection dealt with the life of the United States Air Force, shot down behind enemy lines during the Korean War, their heroisms and escapes from enemy hands.

The fourth and most recent publication of Blair's on the market is the story of Ray Miller, as told to Clay D. Blair, in a book called "The Valley of the Shadow." This is a true story based on the period of Miller's life when he was a prisoner of the enemy during the Korean fight.

EDWARD S. PERRY STRICKEN WITH FATAL HEART ATTACK

Edward S. Perry, 52 years of age, general manager of the Raymond Concrete Co., of Liberia, Africa, a subsidiary of the Raymond Power and Construction Co., World Corporation, was fatally stricken with an acute heart attack Tuesday, April 2, while on a construction job about 200 miles from Monrovia, capital city of Liberia.

A cablegram received by Mrs. Perry at her North Beach home here advised her of her husband's death but gave no details as to when the body would be sent to the United States. Mrs. Perry said burial will take place in Bay St. Louis, with religious services from Christ Episcopal Church.

Mr. Perry was a native of Kokomo, Ind., but had resided in all parts of the globe during the many years he had been with the Raymond Corp.

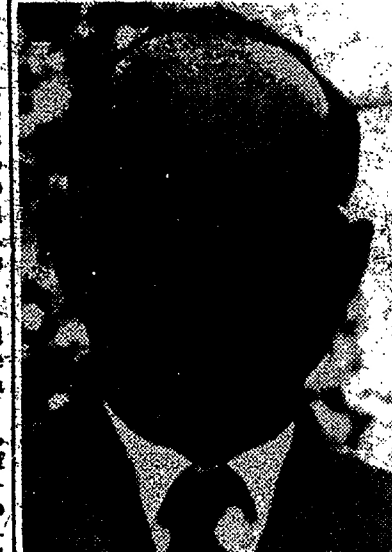

He is survived by his widow, the former Gertrude Stevens of Jackson, Miss., and one son, Edward, Jr., who brought honor to Bay St. Louis when elected President of Boys' Nation several years ago.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Perry of Kokomo, Ind. His father died just three weeks ago. Also survived by two brothers, Frank Perry of Indianapolis; Harry Perry, Kokomo, Ind., and one sister, Mrs. Grace Ogle, of Kokomo, Ind.

Mrs. Perry with her son has been making her home in Bay St. Louis for the past eight or ten years. Her husband was here whenever his work permitted him to be in the States. His son Ted, as he is known to the town, spent considerable time on jobs with his father since his graduation from high school.

Mrs. Perry spent several weeks with his wife and son in Bay St. Louis recently before returning to the road construction job in the heart of Liberia far from civilization. He had never suffered any previous heart ailment.

Built along physically delicate lines, this boy showed early in life a strong and vigorous spiritual and moral quality. What he lacked in body was made up in moral courage.

His calibre was evidenced in early life at school when he was urged by some classmates to enter a competitive race for his class. It was his first entry into a field in which he had no training, but for the sake of others he entered the race and brought honors to his class by coming in first place. This determination and sheer will power were to be the guiding characteristics throughout his life.

A few years later he was a leading candidate for president of the graduating class. Modestly he gave his vote for his opponent, whom he termed "the better man," the single ballot cast by Morawski elected his opponent.

When he completed school his father advised him because of his physical frailness to enter a field of work which would not

A number of perch and Green trout were caught over the week end at different spots up Jordan River, Pearl River and the lakes and bayous hereabouts. Look like we will have a good fishing season from now on.

Wayne Allison and Rev. A. H. Ellison made a nice catch of perch and green trout one day last week.

Bill Casey and Bill Pitta had some fun catching perch and green trout last Saturday. Casey is leaving this weekend for Jackson where he will be stationed for the time being.

George Kramer and son-in-law, were out trying 'em over the weekend. They caught a few nice size perch. George said they were not cooperating like they should. He loves fishing and goes whenever possible.

For those who like frog legs, there are some BIG ones around the lakes and ponds hereabout. We have heard some lately that shake the woods when they bellow. It is about time to go after them.

Some few reports of soft crabs being caught. As soon as the weather warms up a little more there should be plenty of them. At the Pass Christian Golf Club on Tuesday, March 26, Miss Ann Liversedge won a low net with a 42. Mrs. John David

Protect Your Driver's License Is Advice Of Com. Of Public Safety

A person never realizes the true value of a driver's license until he loses the privilege to drive.

This is a hard fact presently coming home to scores of Mississippi motorists whose drive licenses are being suspended by the Department of Public Safety. Accident-prone drivers with bad arrest-conviction records are feeling the pinch of the driver control program considered by national safety officials to be one of the most effective curbs on traffic accidents.

Commissioner of Public Safety Tom Scarborough has estimated that 85 per cent of all Mississippi traffic accidents are caused by some 15 per cent of the state's motorists. The rehabilitation and the awakening of this 15 per cent to the necessity for safe driving is the motivation behind present wholesale suspensions.

Since the first of the year, the Highway Patrol driver's license division through the cooperation of local and county law enforcement officials has suspended and revoked approximately 1,250 licenses on the basis of traffic convictions. This includes mandatory revocations for drunk driving, but does not include licenses revoked for failure to comply with provisions of the Safety Responsibility Act.

Public reaction to the mass suspensions has been varied. The general motoring public seems to recognize a need for the driver controls, even a majority of the drivers affected can see the necessity for the Department's action. "But just give my license back and give me one more chance," which is exactly what the Patrol does in most cases. Suspensions are for "indefinite" periods. The public safety department can reinstate the license when the individual indicates a good driver attitude. Some, however, adopt a belligerent attitude, questioning what right society has to take away their driving privilege.

For instance, Mr. X from north Mississippi... a great injustice has been done... This subject's driving records show four convictions for speeding in less than six months and one earlier accident report. He had been advised last September that his driving record had been brought to the department's attention, but in less than a month he received another speeding conviction.

Or the case of a 27-year-old college student who explained after his license was suspended: "... you'll never find where I've had an accident, though." His record of 24 traffic convictions ranging from running of a stop sign to flagrant reckless driving indicated that he might be headed for an accident however.

Then there was the young trucker "regarded as being a splendid driver..." by his attorneys. His record: four speeding convictions and one reckless driving conviction where the subject had originally been charged with driving while under the influence. And the 18-year-old during the three years which he has been licensed to drive piled up the following arrest record in the city of Jackson: 1 conviction in 1957, 7 convictions in 1958, 2 convictions 1959 four convictions and one accident 1954 and in 1953 he was ticketed for operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license. While this youth was compiling this formidable conviction record with the city, Highway Patrolmen arrested him once for speeding and twice for reckless driving.

Guest speakers at the March meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma, international organization of women educators, were Mrs. Adeline Samuel, of Waveland, and the Rev. A. M. Ellison of the Main Street Methodist Church, Bay St. Louis.

The meeting, held Saturday at the Edgewater Gulf Hotel, was presided over by Mrs. Ollie Eason, president of Zeta Chapter. "Adventures in World Understanding" was the broad topic of the program.

Rev. Ellison spoke on "Spiritual World Unity" and Mrs. Samuel followed with an interesting talk on "How To Be Good Ambassadors While Traveling Abroad."

Both speakers were introduced to members by Mrs. Georgette Hall, vice-president and program and year book chairman.

Another special feature of this meeting was the judging of a poster contest sponsored by Delta Kappa Gamma, and open to students who are interested in becoming teachers.

Schools where there are Delta Kappa Gamma members on the teaching staff were urged to get prospective teachers to make posters indicative of why they would like to enter the teaching profession.

Ruby La. France, junior at Bay High School, who hopes to become a teacher, entered an attractive poster which was placed into competition with others from local schools.

Mrs. Ruby Rose Hamilton, Teacher Recruitment Chairman of Delta Kappa Gamma, appointed a committee to judge the poster and Ruby's poster won first place, a check for $5.00.

Enjoying coffee and cookies and a social hour with other Mississippi Southern alumni in the beautiful new kitchen of the Bay Home Economics Department last Friday afternoon were the following teachers from Waveland School: Misses Mary Margaret and Cecile Turcotte, Miss Mary Perkins and Mrs. Effie Mazarakis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ducre Bourgeois have received news from Tokyo, Japan, that their little grandchild, Christy three years old, has come through another successful operation. Best wishes are sent to little Christy and her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Rham Dardene spent the weekend in their home on Water Street.

Mrs. Alex Hunter and daughter, Diane, visited relatives in New Orleans during the week.

Mrs. John Munch spent a few days in New Orleans during this past week visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ducre Bourgeois celebrated their twenty-seventh wedding anniversary, Mar. 19. A small family gathering enjoyed cake and ice cream at the Bourgeois home on Market Street and wished Mr. and Mrs. Bourgeois many happy years of married bliss.

Mr. W. M. Bozeman visited in Waveland during the week and saw many of his friends. Since the recent death of his wife, he will reside in his Covington, La., home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wolfe and son, Dan, have returned from a vacation in Aspen, Colorado. Mr. Wolfe is the son of Mrs. J. T. Wolfe and brother of Mrs. Jane Mollere.

Staff Sergeant "Billy" Zimmerman is home on furlough and is enjoying the time spent with his wife and two children. He will return to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D. C., where he is still under treatment after undergoing eye surgery. His many friends wish him the best of luck.

Happy birthday wishes this week go to young Sam Piazza, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Piazza, who celebrated his first birthday on Sunday. Ice cream and cake helped Sam celebrate with his parents, sister, and other relatives at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Turcotte, Sr., on Bordages Lane.

Mrs. Ducre Bourgeois, Mrs. Ory Bourgeois, Mrs. Patricia Bourgeois, and Mrs. Ann Langley spent Monday in Gulfport.

Enjoying a scientific field trip in Waveland last weekend were several students and their instructor, Mr. William Brode, who formerly taught at Bay High School, but is now teaching at Copiah-Lincoln Junior College, Vicksburg, Mississippi. The boys and Mr. Brode enjoyed the weekend in the attractive summer cottage of Mrs. Esther Kirck. Students who made the trip with Mr. Brode were Robert Subany, Alton Funchak, Vincent Guy and Benjie Gray. The group is planning another field trip to Waveland some time soon.

This reporter would like to thank all who called or wrote to me on the street about the article we ran last week on "Mr. and Mrs. Murphy" and the foot puppets. I'm glad you enjoyed it. It is a pleasure to report that the mother and the pups were found just across the street from the Jessup home on Waveland Avenue. They are still up for adoption and anyone who is interested in obtaining a fine pet is urged to get in touch with the Jessups.

CLAY BLAIR

of Soviet Russia, Blair was selected to accompany him on the trip. Because of his writing on such important issues as the atomic submarine, and the hydrogen bomb, he was not given a visa into Soviet Union, but remained in Paris until General Twining completed this part of his journey.

Blair then rejoined the General's Staff. In Sept. 1959, Blair transferred from Time to Life Magazine Staff.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Blair, Sr., reside on Union Street in Bay St. Louis. During his college days in New Orleans, Clay, Jr., was interested in amateur theatricals. Inspired by his parents who have been active in the local Little Theatre, he showed a decided flair for stage work, and had roles in a number of productions on the local boards. He may be remembered in "The Male Animal," "Sun Up," "Arsenic and Old Lace" and several others. He was approached at this time of his life for screen tests in Hollywood, but declined the offers, preferring to pursue his literary career.

Dashing and handsome, devoted to his pretty young wife and three children, Clay is an internationally known figure at an age when many men are just getting a foothold into life. Bay St. Louis pays tribute to one of its boys, and is proud to tell the world he grew up and reached maturity in our town.
